Subject: Working Together in 2019

G'day Milly,

How is it going? Getting closer and closer to the big day!
I wanted to drop you a quick email about something we're doing.

I hope you know how much time we've got for your business and the work you do. I also really appreciate the work that we did together over the past 12 months.
In particular the Intentions booklet really helped me realise how much we have in common when delivering holistic solutions to our clients.

Given how much of what we do seems to be complimentary, I wanted to make contact and find out whether it might make sense to chat about doing more of it together in 2019?

Were on a growth path this year and connecting with non-competitive businesses who share similar values, client types and goals is a huge part of that.

Does this make sense to you to invest a bit of time?
